

Jack Johnston

I am relatively new to the Albuquerque metro area having moved from El Paso almost 3 years ago to be closer to my daughter and family. I retired from the El Paso Independent School District where I was the executive director of Technology and Information Systems for 20 years. During my tenure, I was able to bring internet access to the 90 K-12 campuses with an E-Rate grant of $66.1M from the FCC Schools and Library Division. Prior to joining the school district, I was an assistant vice president for a multi-state mortgage company, and while attending UTEP, I worked for a bank data processing service center. Although my major in college was management, my entire career focus was primarily in systems development and design in the technology field.

My experience with ramp building began in 2009 with the Texas Ramp Project where I participated in all facets of ramp building from team leader to administrator. One of my primary responsibilities was assisting in maintaining the TRP database using Salesforce management software.

I am very happy to be on the board of the NM Ramp Project, and to offer my administrative and ramp building expertise where needed.
